London, April 5.

UNIVERSITY TEAM FOR MISSION FIELD

Fifty years ago the late Mr. C. T. Studd, the Cambridge cricketer, led his famous party of seven University men out to the mission field in China.

Now, half a century later, Mr. Alfred Buxton, who was in the heart of Africa with Mr. Studd, his father-in-law, during the last fifteen years of the great missionary's life, is leading another party of seven University men to China, Burma, and Africa. They are:

Mr. Alfred Barclay Buxton, M.A. (Repton and Trinity, Cambridge); Mr. Outhbert Howard Dawkins, B.A. (Rugby and Peterhouse, Cambridge); Mr. David Esmond Stokes (Charterhouse and Lincoln College, Oxford); Mr. William Wynn Grey, B.A. (Stowe and Trinity, Cambridge); Mr. William Douglas O'Hanlon, B.A. (Rugby and Peterhouse, Cambridge); the Rev. Cecil M. Johnston, B.A. (Bedford, Bristol and Durham); Dr. W. Barr Johnston (Bedford and London); and Dr. Ronald Carpenter (St. Lawrence and London).

DAUGHTER FOR MRS. PETER CAZALET

Mrs. Peter Cazalet, wife of the well-known racehorse owner, and before her marriage in December, 1932, Miss Leonora Wodehouse, daughter of Mr. P. G. Wodehouse, the novelist, gave birth to a daughter in London nursing home on Saturday night. This is Mr. Wodehouse's first grandchild.

Mr. Peter Cazalet, brother of Captain Victor Cazalet, M.P., and Miss Thelma Cazalet, M.P., was an Oxford cricket Blue in 1927. In February of last year he bought Clear Note, the horse Capt. R. E. Sassoon, the famous millionaire sportsman, was riding when he was fatally injured in the Weald Handicap at Lingfield in January.

LATE MR. OTTO KAHN

Mr. Otto Kahn, who has just died, remarked a few years ago: "No business I have ever conducted brought me dividends comparable with the satisfaction I have from working for the advancement of art."

It was as modern Maecenas that he was best known; he was for many years responsible for innumerable ventures in the arts. He was chairman of the Metropolitan Opera in New York until 1931, when business demands also caused his resignation from the directorships of the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra Society, Diaghileff's Russian Ballet and Max Reinhardt's company.

Benefactions £200,000 a Year
Whenever possible Mr. Kahn insisted that his benefactions should be kept secret; but he is said at one time to have been giving away £200,000 a year. He helped artistic projects ranging from the restoration of the Parthenon to the support of young negro singers in New York.

An accurate estimate of his fortune is not at present possible, but at the Senate Banking Inquiry at Washington, where, contrary to medical advice, he testified at length, he revealed that the total assets of Kahn, Leob and Co. were approximately $6,850,000—of which his personal holdings were believed to be about 18 per cent.

Fathers and Sons

Otto Kahn's generous catholicity in artistic matters was well exemplified when he built a "Dream Home" for artists in Greenwich Village in 1928.

Still more perhaps, was it shown when his son, Roger Kahn, became a successful jazz orchestra leader. Mr. Kahn studied modern dance music, and eventually declared his support for it.

He may have been remembering that when he was a boy of 17 his own father discovered him writing a tragedy in blank verse, and unsympathetically packed him off to a bank in Karlsruhe.

THE KING'S LEVEE

When the King held the second Levee of the season at St. James's Palace yesterday he wore a black crepe band on his left arm in mourning for Queen Emma of the Netherlands.

The King, wearing the scarlet uniform of a Field Marshal, drove in a state procession from Buckingham Palace along the Mall. All those attending the Levee were mourning for Queen Emma by the King's command. Men in uniform and Court dress wore black crepe bands on their left arms, and clergy and members of the Bar wore the special mourning signs laid down in the Lord Chamberlain's regulations. The Levee lasted for just over half an hour, and more than two hundred presentations of army, navy, and Air Force officers and others were made to the King.

NO GEOLOGICAL MUSEUM

London is without its Geological Museum. The premises in the heart of Piccadilly which it has occupied for many years is closed, and its countless exhibits are in the process of being transferred to the new and magnificent building in South Kensington, where the World Economic Conference was held last July. Its occupation then and its temporary reservation for a possible resumption of the conference, delayed the transfer of the Museum from its old abode. The Museum has now been closed for over two months, and at least another month or six weeks will elapse before the new premises will be open to the public. Meantime the library of the Museum in Piccadilly is being kept open for the use of members of the Geological Society.

NEW LAVERY PORTRAITS

At seventy-eight Sir John Lavery is still the busiest of our Academicians, and this year he is sending to the Academy no fewer than five large canvases. There are to be his newly finished portraits of Mrs. Cunningham-Reid, Lady Anne Rhys, Mr. Arthur Young, of New York, and the portrait of his granddaughter, Miss Dianna Dickinson. In addition to these Sir John is exhibiting what will surely be one of the most discussed pictures of the year, which he boldly describes as "The Prime Minister at Lissle-mouth." This, as you may remember, shows the Prime Minister in the kitchen of his house at Lissle-mouth, with Miss Isabel knitting, and somewhere in the background the housekeeper, "Jeannie." Mr. MacDonald has just laid down a book.

Sir John tells me that while the picture was being painted a journalist arrived from London to gather Jeannie's impressions of what it felt like to be painted by a Royal Academician. When the reporter was announced by a servant Jeannie paused for a moment, and then in a Doric torrent exploded with: "You just go away back and tell him that I am not saying to the likes of him what passed between Sir John and me."

FILMING SHAKESPEARE

I was not surprised to-day to learn that Sir Philip Ben Great is one of the principals of the newly formed Shakespeare Film Society, Ltd., for the veteran actor-manager has devoted the greater portion of his life to the propagation of the Shakespearean gospel. It is largely due to his efforts that over a million of London's poor children have attended presentations of Shakespeare's plays, and for nearly half a century he has been a strong supporter of the movement which has produced these masterpieces on open-air stages throughout the country. In this latest venture Sir Philip has the support of Sir Frank Benson, among other notable Shakespearean actors, and I understand that the intention is to film excerpts of the Swan of Avon's works for

GUN V. ARMOUR

The world has been presented with a pleasant Easter egg in the shape of an announcement that England has again achieved the "blue riband" of the "gun v. armour" race by producing a shell which will pierce modern armour-plate and then travel a further nine miles, in the course of which travel it may be assumed that it will be "bait for the coo"—or for anything else which happens to be in the way. It is not to be supposed for a moment that this is the end of the matter. This particular contest has been going on merrily for a good many years now and has put a good many millions into the pockets of various armament firms. It is indeed an admirable example of the profitable joys of the vicious circle.

It now becomes a point of honour with armament makers to produce armour-plate which shall be impervious to the shell. They have done it before; they can do it again. There may be doubts as to the real value for war purposes of this particular competition, except that every nation hopes pre-eminently that the opening of the "next war" will come at a moment when it has just achieved the "perfect" shell or the "impervious" armour. But there does not seem to be any special reason why the circle should ever cease turning, or alter its shape. At the moment the best armour-plate is potentially obsolete or obsolescent, five years hence it may be the "perfect" shell which is in the same plight. However, as armament manufacturers can make both—"they should worry."

SIX O'CLOCK WEDDINGS

The introduction into the House of Lords of a bill extending the latest hour for the celebration of a marriage from three in the afternoon till six will be quoted, no doubt, by social historians as further evidence of the increasing sobriety of the present age. A curious list might be got together of things which, in the days of hard drinking and an early dinner hour, it was thought better to do in the morning. Our ancestors began their working day at an hour which seems absurdly early to us. Serious business was finished for the most part by three in the afternoon, and marriage has generally been considered a serious business. So, too, with Parliament; there was a long and vigorous struggle against legislation by candlelight even in winter. Strong drink was not the only factor in this desire to get business over early. There was not much artificial lighting in those days after sunset, and what lighting there was would be pretty ineffective for the most part. Curious things were attempted and done when there were large fortunes at stake, and it was just as well that marriages should take place when everyone was, presumably, sober and there was also a good light. After three was getting towards the dinner hour, and when that time came no wise person attempted business.

THE TEXTILE TALKS

Mr. Okada, in spite of several reverses, continues to be optimistic. Although the industrialists have failed to come to an agreement he has hopes that the representatives of the British and Japanese Governments will be able to arrive at conclusions among themselves.

It was disclosed to-day that Mr. Matsudaira has received from Japan the instructions according to which he is to proceed in his talks with Mr. Runciman. According to Japanese arrangements discussions were to have been early next week but the Easter holidays have made this impossible. It was hoped that Mr. Runciman and Mr. Matsudaira, with Mr. Matsuyama in attendance, would have begun their talks on Tuesday, but these conversations have now been held over till the week after next.

Vienna, April 20.
The three hundred and fifty Austrian Socialists who had crossed the Czechoslovakian frontier and been interned by the Czech authorities following the abortive February revolt will leave for Soviet Russia next week at their own request. They will travel under a heavy guard by way of Poland who had granted them permission to cross through Polish Territory.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Vienna, April 20.
A special committee has been formed for the purpose of conducting negotiations with the Government concerning the restoration of the Hapsburg rights and property as soon as the new Constitution comes into force. The committee is headed by Duke Max and Hohenberg—eldest son of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, formerly heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne, whose assassination by the Serbians was the direct cause of the world war. While anti-Hapsburg laws will not be contained in the new Constitution, they will continue in force as simple laws which may thus be abrogated by a majority vote or Government decree as the case may be.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Berlin, April 20.
The Austrian minister at Berlin Mr. Tauschitz, who was absent from the capital for a long period on account of illness, has taken over his post again.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Goerlitz, April 20.
Complimentary tickets were issued to all mothers with one or more children under two years of age entitling them to be served first among waiting people at all public offices such as Railway, Post and Municipal offices. The Municipal Council of Goerlitz is the first in Germany that has introduced this laudable innovation.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Berlin, April 20.
After nine hours play the sixth chess championship match between Alekhine and Bogorubov ended in a draw. The score now stands at 4 points to 2 in favour of the world champion, Alekhine.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Berlin, April 20.
Hitler's birthday party was attended by thousands of poor working families on Friday when every Stormtroop unit staged a dinner and amusements for the unemployed. Practically every factory took the opportunity to assemble all the workers for an hour's national-socialist commemoration. Many thousands crowded into the chancellery to sign their names in the birthday book, so great was the crowd that police detachments had to be sent to the scene to regulate the traffic. By a special order of Defence Minister, Blomberg the barracks of the Bavarian regiment in which Hitler served during the war, have been renamed the Adolf Hitler barracks.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Bucharest, April 20.
The trial of eight Roumanian Army officers and five civilians charged with having plotted "to annihilate" the entire Roumanian dynasty by blowing up the Cathedral (during the Orthodox Easter Services which was attended by King Carol, the Crown Prince Michael and numerous high dignitaries), opened before a military court here on Friday.

The trial is attracting unusual interest, the Court-house being besieged since the early hours of the morning by a vast crowd. The prisoners' bench has been screened off by heavy wiring and each defendant is guarded by an Army officer standing behind him with drawn revolver.

A large table in front of the judge's bench is piled high with explosive evidence, including upwards of some 100 hand grenades, many rifles and seven packages of dynamite which were found in possession of the conspirators and would have been sufficient to blow up half of the capital.

The principal accused is Colonel Prekop, who was formerly an intimate friend of the King and has piloted a plane in which Carol made his dramatic return to Roumania four years ago.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Berlin, April 20.
The State secret police, organisations of the entire Reich completed their long drawn out period of consolidation on Friday, when a special decree by Premier Goerring removed the present Head of the Prussian Secret Police from office and placed the entire Prussian organisation under the National Secret Police Bureau, headed during the last six months, by Hermann Himmler, who is also Commander-in-Chief of the picked Storm Troop divisions, known as S.S. or "Schutz Staffels."

The decree transfers the present Chief of Prussian State Secret Police, Diels, to the position of Governmental President of the Cologne district. The process of federalisation of the scattered departments of the Secret Police has necessarily been slow, the different State and Provincial divisions being only gradually absorbed one after another into Himmler's organisation in the last six months of the re-organisation.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Paris, April 20.
A new submarine cruiser "Surcouf" will shortly be added to the French Navy. According to press reports, the new submarine will have a displacement of 3,000 tons and a cruising radius of 12,000 miles, thus being able to half circumnavigate the globe without refuelling. The vessel is 360 feet long with a speed of 20 knots on the surface and 11 knots under water. The armament consists of 14 torpedo tubes, four 24-inch guns as well as two anti-aircraft guns. It will carry a small hydroplane on board and be protected by comparatively heavy armoured plates. According to the present schedule the new submarine-cruiser will leave on June 11 for a world cruise to test its seaworthiness.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Milan, April 20.
Five were killed when a group of nine labourers were buried by an avalanche near Sondrio on Friday. A rescue squad succeeded in digging out the other four alive.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Berlin, April 20.
The favourable reaction in the Berlin bourse on Friday was largely attributable to the publication of the official figures showing a remarkable increased production of raw steel by comparison with that of last year. The total output for March, 1933 was 587,220 tons, March 1934, 925,662, an increase of nearly 60 per cent. The average daily production in March, 1933 for 27 working days was 21,749 tons, March 1934, 28 working days, 35,756. The total output from January to March 1933, was 1,592,495, and 1934, 2,571,756.—Transocean Kuo Min.

LESSON SERMON

First Church of Christ,
Scientist—Hong Kong

"Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 22.

The Golden Text was: "We also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement" (Romans 5:11).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Jesus Christ. For he is our peace, who hath made both one and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us. And that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby. For through him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father" (Eph. 2:13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18).

QUEEN CHRISTINA

New Exclusive Serial

Chapter I.

The child was christened Christina. It was the name of her mother. It had been the name of the king's mother. It was a name beloved throughout Sweden. The ceremony of her naming was the day after her birth. The king could not remain longer away from his post of duty at the front. Again the crowds gathered around the royal chapel and again their low voices could be heard in prayer that the child might grow to be a worthy successor to her father, girl though she was.

Within the chapel, the nobles and their ladies were gathered for the solemn service. Only the mother was missing. It was her desire that the child be christened while her father could be there to bless her.

"I have done my part," she said, when it was suggested the naming should be delayed until she could kneel before the baptismal font. "She does not need me there. I shall be praying for her here—as I shall be always, while God lets me live. It is my deepest wish that her father shall hold her while she is entering the church of God."

So it was.

The king's horse was waiting for him when he left the chapel. He saw the child lying on its mother's breast again as he bade them farewell.

"I go happy," he said. "You Ovestierna—and you, Aage—have given me your pledges. There is no fear in my heart for her safety."

He was gone.

It was Aage who had the chief care of the child.

"She is to be brought up as a boy," he would say proudly, "and for that, it is right, that her upbringing should be done by a man, not an old wife."

It was a strange rearing which the little princess had. She was surrounded by love and devotion, but there was a stern note under it all. She was not permitted, from her earliest days, to know any of the allowances which are made for girls.

"Men do not cry," Aage said to her one day when she was little more than a baby and had fallen and hurt herself.

"I'm not a man," she said.

"But you are to act like one," he answered. "Not only when you are a big woman, but while you are a little child. It is not tomorrow you are to be brave. It is to-day. If you have courage now, it is all your father expects of you. But he does expect that of you."

"All-right," she said. Her voice had a tremor in it, but she held for little head high and there was an attempt at a smile on her lips and in her eyes.

Aage might dress her as a boy, might teach her all the manly virtues, might remind her that the king called her "his son," but he could not rule nature. After all, she was a beautiful girl, rather than a handsome boy.

On the whole, it was a happy childhood which she knew. Her mother was gentle and loving, Aage was nurse, guardian and playmate all in one, her teachers were devoted, however strict their discipline might be. Her one longing was that her father could be at home more. She would look forward to his days with her and when they passed all too swiftly, she would be sad—or she would have been, if Aage had permitted it.

"No tears," he would say in as harsh a voice as he could find to speak to her. "You are the daughter of a soldier—and you must be a little soldier."

"But I love father," she would say.

"Who doesn't?" the man would answer. "But he is needed at the front. Are you going to act like his child—or are there to be tears?"

a boy of seven. He was crossing the courtyard and walking slowly. His clothes were black. He looked strange, he seemed strange. When she asked him to go riding with her and Aage he shook his head. Then she saw he could not speak. He was crying.

"No tears," she said, in imitation of Aage. Then, as he did not answer, she said, sternly, "Why do you act like a cry-baby? Men do not cry."

"Don't dear," said her mother, who had come up to them. She patted the boy gently on the shoulder and told him to go on to his mother. Then he faced around, looked Christina squarely in the eye.

"I'm not a cry-baby," he said firmly. "But I love my father and—"

"I love mine, too," she answered. "But you will see yours again. Mine was killed in the last battle."

Christina went white. She put out her little hands and touched him, but she did not speak. That is not until Aage came up.

"I don't like war," she said. "I think it is wicked."

For once he was speechless. He stared at her. After a moment he found his voice.

"Men must fight," he said. "Why?" she demanded.

"Because they must save their homes and their country."

"But Adolph's father is dead—who will save him and his mother and his brothers and little sister now?"

"Your father and all the other soldiers of Sweden."

"But he wants his father."

"We want many things in this life which we may not have, my prince."

"I wish I had not scolded him for crying," she answered. "I wouldn't if I had known why."

"It is for the brave to be tender always," said Aage.

"Would you, Aage, have scolded him? Would you?"

He shook his head. "Men should not cry—but he is still little and I think we might overlook it."

"Very well, Aage, I think it is wicked to fight and to kill Adolph's father and no matter how much you scold me, if they ever tell me my father has been killed, I shall probably cry."

"God forbid that anyone will ever tell you that," he said.

It was a year later that Christina proved her mettle to Aage. The battle of Lutzen had been fought. Gustavus Adolphus, the golden helmet on his head, had led his men against Wallenstein and his men. The Swedish battle hymn "Our God is A Strong Tower" was ringing out. There was a deep fog and the king, plunging through it, was separated from his cavalry. He rode furiously on. He had given the signal and he knew they would follow. The enemy, charging savagely through the mist, fired and galloped on. A bullet struck the king. He swayed for a moment, then slipped to the ground. The riderless horse galloped madly across the plain. Cuirassiers of Wallenstein saw the horse and almost stumbled over the fallen king. Two of them dismounted and stooped over him. One pulled off the golden helmet. The eyes beneath were closed, the face was white.

"Who are you?" one of the Cuirassiers asked.

The eyelids of the fallen man lifted slowly for a moment.

"I was—the King of Sweden," he gasped, and said no more.

When the king's charger came back to the palace with the signs of mourning—the boots reversed and the arms of the dead hero hung on the empty saddle, Christina stood on an upper balcony watching it and the mourning soldiers who followed. She drew in her breath quickly. Aage reached for her hand, but she did not let him take it. She stood straight with her head high.

"No tears, Aage," she said. Her eyes were clear and bright. But the man was wiping his.

Waiting For Blue

A young lady was held up by the traffic signal and, of course, when it was time to "go" she could not get her car to start at all.

However, there was a good string of cars behind, waiting, and still the signal kept on "Stop—Go." At last a policeman went up to her and said:

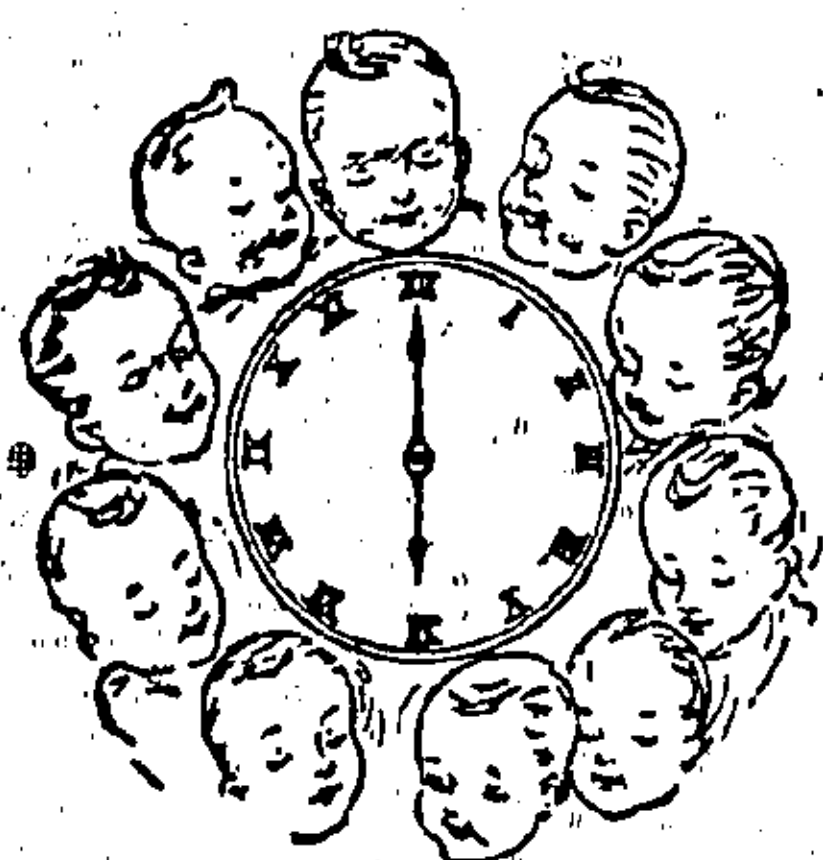

"Well, Miss, haven't you found a color to suit you yet?"—Montreal Star.

GLASGOW WIN SCOTTISH F. A. CUP

Arsenal Now Sure Of Championship

London, April 21. Glasgow Rangers won the Scottish F. A. Cup to-day when they beat St. Mirren by five goals to nil at Hampden Park after leading by two goals at the interval.

The usual enthusiasm was shown in the Scottish Cup final, over 100,000 being present when the Rangers, who were at full strength, kicked off with the advantage of a strong wind.

The Rangers were early dangerous. McPhail, the inside-left being outstanding. He narrowly missed from 30 yards, and then struck the side net.

St. Mirren at last took play to midfield, but Simpson, the centre-half, intercepted.

The wind was spoiling the game as a spectacle.

McGregor, the St. Mirren centre-forward netted from a breakaway, but the point was disallowed for offside.

The Rangers persisted in their attack, and McLoyle, the St. Mirren goalkeeper, did well when he punched out a high shot, but Nicholson followed up and lobbed the ball over his head into the net ten minutes before the interval.

Then the Rangers' goalkeeper, Hamilton, who had hitherto been a spectator, had his first goal-kick. McLoyle then saved from Nicholson, but McPhail followed up to net the second goal before the interval.

After a brief effort in which Knox and Phillips were dangerous, St. Mirren, defence collapsed completely and failed to recover from their first half grilling. The Rangers' right winger tripped two defenders and netted. Six minutes later Smith, centre-forward netted from a ground shot. The Rangers were most confident and overran their opponents. Nicholson shot the fifth goal.

A section of the crowd, unable to see, demonstrated at the back of the grandstand, but ultimately were dispersed by mounted police. A stand spectator collapsed and died.

A SQUARE INCH OF PAPER

That Is Worth
£10,000

Special Air Mail Service

London April 5.

A frail little woman is fighting a legal battle with lawyers and executors in New York over a square inch of paper. But that piece of paper is worth between £10,000 and £15,000.

Meanwhile in England half a dozen connoisseurs are keeping in touch with New York by cable, watching and waiting for the opportunity to step in and gain possession of that piece of paper.

It is the British Guiana one cent stamp, the rarest stamp in the world. It is the only specimen in existence.

The frail woman is Mrs. Hind, widow of the millionaire brush manufacturer, whose hobby was collecting rare stamps.

Bought The Lot
She still possesses the stamp, which she claims, was given to her by her husband; the executors dispute her right to it. Negotiations continue.

Meanwhile the remainder of the collection, valued at £100,000, has arrived with Mr. R. H. Harmer, the stamp dealer, who, on hearing that the collection was to be sold, raced out to America in advance of hundreds of other dealers and bought the lot.

But the precious stamp which Mr. Harmer wanted more than any other in the world, for which he had waited many years to buy, eluded him.

When he reached America the squabble was still going on, and the stamp cannot yet be sold.

Hope of Settlement
Mr. Harmer said to a "Sunday Express" representative: "The question has not been taken to court, and I hope it will be settled amicably."

"I am in touch with the executors, and as soon as the ownership of the stamp is settled I shall buy it."

"LITTLE WOMEN"

Romance, Drama,
ComedyReplete with story and production values, "Little Women" also provides the exhibitor with a wealth of the snowman-ship material in actors and acting, direction, photography, literary and technical treatment. The screen entertainment is in the drama, romance, comedy, character, thrills, pathos and tragedy, all emotionally human and tenderly sentimental.There are other values, too, readily evident. From an American classic, read by millions, there is already a large potential in-hand audience. In Katharine Hepburn is a grand box office name. The production is attuned to the Thanksgiving and Christmas season mood. The picture was made with realism and authenticity in complete harmony with the spirit of the Alcott novel.
The cast faithfully interprets the original story. The treatment carries undeniable appeal to all womanhood. The production is clean, sweet and beautiful all the way through to the point of being ideal.The handicap, if there is one, is whether the show will appeal to the hey-hey modernness—the 18 to 25 year old gang which seems to be yelling for something snappy, spectacular and jolting in all its entertainment. There is no modernism in "Little Women";
there are no sock-in-the-jaw smashes to knock 'em out of their seats. Rather there is a simple, real and powerful story of life that should be driven home strongly in the campaign.Always in action and dialogue there is an intelligent, finely handled effort to induce the reaction of tears, smiles and an occasional bell-laugh.Where "Little Women" is a prestige picture, it is also class and mass entertainment of the highest caliber. Most fathers and mothers will understand it as an epic of life as they have lived and dreamed life. At the same time, while the story has always been one that adults consider ideal for juveniles, the picture appears deep for youthful understandings and it is long.For the group at the end of the teen age, or just over it, an impressive, straight, - from - the - shoulder, truth-telling advance campaign, boldly challenging them to see this picture and say that the heart of little women of yesterday is any different from the heart of little women to-day.

Lasky's attempt at the unique

Walker and two well-known radio features, the Pickens Sisters and the Beverly Hill Billies.Jack Oakie and Jack Haley are a couple of likable mugs from New York's Tin-Pan-Alley who finally sell a song and go to Hollywood. They lose their money in a card-game and have to "hitch-hike." They meet a "nut" who tells them he's the president of a motion picture company. He takes a liking to them, gives them a contract and away they go.When they arrive at the studio the cold reception given them comes as a complete surprise. But with characteristic boldness, they crash their way into the studio, talk themselves into a big job and meet all the blondes.

DAY OF SENSATIONS
AT MACAOHEART'S JOY PAYS DIVIDEND OF $841 IN NOVICES EVENTBanquet Hall Wins But Is Disqualified

(BY "MORNING DEW")

There was plenty of excitement at the Aeria Preta Race Course yesterday when the Macao Jockey Club held its first extra race meeting.

The outstanding feature of the day was a dividend of $841 paid on Heart's Joy, which pony, ridden by Mr. Li Fook Fai, won the Bedale Handicap, over a mile. There was only one backer.

In the fifth race on the programme, Mr. Ip Kiu Ying brought in Banquet Hall to finish in front of Wakefield, but was disqualified for bumping.

Another big dividend was paid in the Machine Gun Troop race, when Anson, ridden by Mr. Mossop won to pay his supporters $39.60 for a win.

NORMAN DEITZ HEAVILY THROWN

Mr. Norman Deitz, the leading local jockey was heavily thrown in the Victoria Handicap, when Bran Tub, which he was riding in front of the field in the home straight, jumped the rails. Mr. Deitz did not get up and it was thought at first that he must have been seriously injured, but fortunately it appeared upon examination afterwards that he escaped with no more than a severe shaking.

Panama Wins.
In the opening race over a mile, Mr. H. J. Law's Panama was cleverly handled by Mr. Butler to win from Potsdam with Black Velvet finishing close up. The Crook and Valley Hall took the lead in the earlier stages of the race, with Sen View playing a waiting game. After six furlongs, the leaders had had enough and Potsdam and Panama passed them, one on each side. In a close tussle home, Panama won. Black Velvet passed Valley Hall a hundred yards from home to finish third.

The Big Upset.
There were eight starters in the novices event, and Mr. Yue Shun Wah on Harbour View was made favourite. He was unplaced. Racing Joy took the lead early on, followed by Harbour View, Heart's Joy and Racing Lad with Sporting Chance bringing up the rear. The last named was allowed to stay too far behind and never got up with the leaders. The position at the head of the home straight was: Armistice Day in front, with Heart's Joy and Sporting Chance coming up strongly. Mr. Li Fook Fai rode beautifully to pass Sporting Chance and Armistice Day and to maintain his slight lead over the whole of the last furlong. Sporting Chance finished in front of Harbour View by half a length.

Another Surprise.
Mr. S. N. Pan's victory with No Fear was another surprise (not to say reverse) for punters, who backed King's Parade and Esk heavily in the third race over a mile. Orlando and Esk made the pace, but both were beaten before five furlongs were over when No Fear took change and led all the way home. King's Parade came along with a big rush in the finishing straight, but could not get nearer than three lengths of the leader. City of Shanghai was third, five lengths behind second. Esk was fourth.

Deitz Thrown.
Mr. Deitz who took out Bran Tub in the six furlongs race for unsuccessful punts, was made second favourite to Scar Face (Mr. Fung). The other starters were Wapiti (Mr. Butler) and Co-Ship (Mr. Ip). The four ponies were absolutely level over the first half mile, but thereafter Bran Tub drew in front and a furlong from home was three lengths in front of Scar Face, when the pony jumped the fence into the sand track and threw Mr. Deitz heavily. Scar Face went on to win the race from Wapiti, by two lengths. Co-Ship was half a length behind Wapiti.

Mr. Deitz was uninjured except for a bad shaking.

The Stadium Stakes for "C" Class. ponies which have not yet won, found Banquet Hall leading a field of five all the way round. The pony turned into the straight with a three lengths lead from Wakefield with Racing Luck and Mortmain well up. While Morning Sun had faded out of the picture. At the distance post, Wakefield was picking up on the leader when Banquet Hall swerved out and bumped into him. The two, however, put up a good race home, Banquet Hall winning by half a length.

Mortmain finished third and Racing Luck fourth.

After the race an inquiry was held by the Stewards as a result of which Banquet Hall was disqualified and the jockey warned.

Volunteer Handicap.
There were nine starters in the Volunteers race in which Mr. Lammert on Jack O'Lantern took the lead. The pony appeared all spent entering the straight when he was still a couple of lengths in front with Anson and Pat closing on him. In the run home, Anson won by two lengths from Pat with Jack O'Lantern third. The winner paid $3.80 to each of his supporters.

Ladies Race.
Miss Betty Fair won the ladies' race over half a mile with Valley Hall Black Velvet (Miss Scott Harston) finished second and Harbour View (Miss Betty Fair) finished third. Harbour View and Snappy Eye led, but in the straight Valley Hall and Black Velvet passed them to finish in that order. Harbour View was third and The Crook fourth. Before the race, Racing Joy took Mrs. Williams for a gallop round the course, following a false start.

PRETTY K'LOON
WEDDINGMr. G. Nicholls And Miss D. Hamblin

A pretty wedding was solemnised at St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, on Saturday by the Rev. Higgs, when Miss Daphne A. S. Hamblin, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Hamblin of the China Light and Power Company became the bride of Mr. George A. Nicholls, younger son of Mrs. E. J. Nicholls and the late Mr. G. Nicholls of Folkestone, Kent, England.

Miss Hamblin chose for her bridal gown, a "Eunice" model of ivory chiffon and silk lace with high neck finishing in a scarf effect at the back, full cartridge pleated sleeves and skirt and an exquisitely embroidered brussels net veil, held by a coronet of dainty orange blossom buds. To complete a most dainty effect, the bride carried a bouquet of white carnations and roses.

The bride was attended by two bridesmaids, her sister, Miss Pat Hamblin and Miss Barbara Budden. Both wore "Eunice" gowns of hyacinth and daffodil chiffon cut on similar lines to that of the bride. Large leghorn picture hats and bouquets of gladioli finished their attractive ensembles.

The bride's mother was gracefully attired in a nut-brown lace gown with hat to tone by "Eunice" and carried a bouquet of African daisies.

The bride was given away by her father, Mr. F. Hamblin, Mr. G. I. Angus, of the China Light and Power Company was the best man. Mr. Rupert Baldwin was the organist in the church.

After the wedding a reception was held at the China Light and Power Recreation Club, King's Park, where the health of the happy couple was toasted.

The honeymoon will be spent in Baguio, P. I., the bride's going away dress being an ensemble of blue and dove.

TRAINING GALLOPS

Glorious Star Covers A Mile
In Fast Time

(BY "MORNING DEW")

The training gallops on Saturday contained much that is of interest especially the efforts of Australian ponies.

Glorious Star went over a mile in 1.57, finishing full of running. Racing Heart is looking very well, but was sent over slow work only. The Goose moved convincingly and seems to be improving. Alacrity finished a six furlongs gallop with a last quarter of 26.2.

Gladiator, King's Fancy, Cossack's Beauty and Soldier of Germany are amongst the others which did well.

AUSTRALIAN GOODWILL MISSION

ENTERTAINED BY LOCAL ASSOCIATION

The Hon. Mr. J. G. Latham, P. C. and members of the Australian Goodwill Mission to the Far East, were entertained to a dinner at the Hongkong Hotel yesterday by the Association. Dr. H. D. Matthews, president of the Association, presided and among the large gathering present were the Hon. Lt.-Col. Sir Thomas Hensley, M.P., New South Wales, Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, the Hon. Mr. C. Gordon Mackie, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, the Hon. Dr. S. W. T'so, the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, Mr. A. W. Ingram, Mr. J. Wolfe, Mr. A. Stevenson, Mr. Amps, Mr. A. C. Moore, Mr. Acine (Consul-General for Japan), Mr. F. Murray, Mr. G. C. Felham, Lt.-Comdr. McLaughlin, Mr. F. Neill, Mr. J. Hunter, Mr. C. Cheong, Mr. Lee Fong, Mr. Wong Kwong Tin, and Mr. H. Ching.

After the health of His Majesty the King had been toasted, Dr. Matthews said that the day being nearest to the Anzac Day on which the Association would have any function, it would be fitting that they should remember those who gave their lives during the war for Australia and New Zealand. Arrangements were being made, he said, to observe that day and a wreath would be laid at the Cenotaph, and he hoped that there would be a good attendance of Australians to take part in the ceremony. Without saying much, the Australians could look back with pride to the gallantry and courage of those who gave their lives for a worthy cause.

Dr. Matthews then proposed the toast of the Anzacs and other members of Australian forces who lost their lives in the Great War. Referring to the Goodwill Mission, Dr. Matthews said that he and the members of the Australian and New Zealand Association were happy for the opportunity and privilege they had of welcoming the Hon. Mr. J. G. Latham, Prime Minister and Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Australia. They had known a great deal of Mr. Latham by repute, and he knew that he was a man who always put the interests of his party before his own personal interests, and even more important, he put the interests of the Commonwealth far before the interests of his party. (Applause.) He was the man whom they knew would stand and had stood in Australia for sane and honest Government and policy. He was the man who was one of their leaders and who had done a great deal to pull Australia out of the depression.

There was not a doubt, he said, that a great deal of the increased security and better outlook in Australia was due to men like Mr. Latham. Although they did not believe that Australia was yet out of all difficulties, they, however, did believe that she was being led on a course that would overcome and restore confidence and bring back prosperity to the land of which they were so proud.

Continuing Dr. Matthews said that Mr. Latham was on a goodwill tour of the Far East, and although goodwill might mean a small thing to most of them, it had a tremendous effect on the relations of nations both in regard to trade and otherwise. He concluded by asking the gathering to drink to the health of Mr. Latham and to the success of the Goodwill Mission.

Mr. Latham

Replying on behalf of the Mission, the Hon. Mr. Latham said that as the President had referred to the Anzac Day he would like to say a few words about it. He said that he had seen Anzac Day being celebrated in more than one place but he thought that the most interesting celebration of the day was in Australia itself.

The wonderful march past of men of all classes, types, ranks and society made a deep impression. He had seen many ceremonies in his life and yet he found nothing more living than Anzac Day with its simplicity and dignity, and he was proud as a representative of Australia to find that Australians and New Zealanders in Hong Kong were taking such a keen interest in it.

It was pleasing indeed, he said, to be here as an Australian and to bring good news from Australia. The world as a whole was in a bad way, but he was glad to be able to say that conditions in Australia were definitely improving—unemployment had definitely decreased, trade had increased and taxation had been reduced, and he hoped that Australia would shortly be wholly restored to prosperity.

Mr. Latham concluded by saying that the aims of the present mission were not to develop trade relations with the eastern hemisphere, but to develop friendly relations. No matter what trade relations might be, he said, human or friendly relations must be attained, and that was the aim of the present mission.

Mr. Latham added that he understood the present postal system in Australia, regarding Hong Kong, was not very satisfactory and asked that the Secretary of the Association to write him a letter so that he could show it to the Minister of Posts and let him feel ashamed of himself!

The members of the Mission are:—
The Hon. Mr. J. G. Latham, P.C.

Mr. H. A. Standish (private secretary to Mr. Latham).
Mr. J. L. Ferguson (Assistant private secretary).

COUNTERFEIT COINS

Case Against Chinese Dismissed

Arrested in Upper Lascar Row last Friday afternoon, with fifty counterfeit Hong Kong ten cent coins in his possession, a Chinese named Wu Chai, described as an unemployed, was charged before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy on Saturday morning.

The defendant pleaded not guilty and said that he had received a small sum of money from his friend all of which was in ten cent pieces, and he did not know the coins were counterfeit.

After hearing the evidence given by the prosecuting officer, the Magistrate thought that the evidence was not sufficient to convict the defendant, and hence the case was dismissed.

The counterfeit coins were ordered to be immediately destroyed.

TRAM MISHAP

Young Chinese Injured

Serious head and body injuries were sustained by a young Chinese student, aged about 13 years, when he fell from a moving tram in the Wanchai District at 1.30 p.m. last Saturday afternoon.

The boy, who had just left school in the Central District, was standing in the open doorway of the first class compartment of an eastward bound tram, and it is alleged, stepped to the bottom step in readiness to alight at Hennessy Road.

After first aid treatment had been applied, the boy was conveyed to the Government Civil Hospital by ambulance.

It is reported that the condition of the victim is very serious.

ANCIENT COPPER COINS

Found In Lin Ping District

According to a Canton vernacular paper, it is reported that while in the process of digging for further reconstruction of the See Kung Temple, in the Lin Ping District, a certain Chinese workman, engaged by the Education Department of that district, recently found an earthen pot at a depth of about six feet, near the Tai Shing Hall of the temple.

The contents of the pot consisted of many old coins, totalling over a hundred. On the face of each coin are four ancient Chinese characters, namely "Hoi Yuen Tung Po," which proved that they belonged to the Tang dynasty.

It is reported that these coins have been transferred to the Lin Ping District Education Department for preservation, and as soon as their library is completed, they will be placed on exhibition.

VOLUNTEER ATHLETICS

Static Machine Gunners Win The Day

KEEN COMPETITIONS IN KING'S PARK

The Seventh Annual Athletic Meeting of the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps was held on Saturday on the grounds of the Kowloon Cricket Club and was attended by a very large gathering.

The various items on the programme were keenly contested and the several team races on the card provided much excitement. The open team race fell to a team from H.M.S. Cornwall who won after a close race from South Wales Borderers with the Lincolns finishing third.

The Static Machine Gunners and the Mobile Machine Gunners were in close competition for the Championship, the former winning by four points. The tug of war between these two teams actually settled the issue, since had the Mobile Machine Gun won, they would have tied with the Statics in points.

The Infantry Company finished third with seventeen points and the Small Units scored 13 points.

In the race between the Officers and the Sergeants, the former led most of the way, but one of the men had the misfortune to slip the rod in passing and lost over twenty yards thereby.

The Suffolk tug of war teams proved to be too good for the other entries, their "A" and "B" teams figuring in the finals.

In the tug of war, the Mobile Machine Gunners, after sharing honours with the Static Machine gunners, over the first two pulls, had to drop Whitham who was winded. This would have provided an easy win for the Statics, but Capt. Owen Hughes very sportingly stood down, so that the teams pulled seven a side. The Statics, however, won quite easily.

In calling upon Mrs. Borrett, wife of the G.O.C. to give away the prizes, Captain Mitchell said that the idea of dividing up the units this year was a happy one, as in previous years the Portuguese company had had things all their own way.

After the prizes had been presented, Captain Mitchell called for three cheers for Mrs. Borrett.

BRITAIN'S PRESTIGE ABROAD

It is an ironical circumstance that one of the most dangerous factors in the world situation today is the habitual modesty of Great Britain.

If Britain were to abandon the policy of urging international disarmament, and enter a race in armaments, the moral effect upon other nations, and upon the stability of the world order would clearly be disastrous.

Yet it would be willful ignoring of plain facts to deny that such a development is possible if the British people come to believe what they are being told from many quarters, namely, that their lack of armaments has brought Britain into contempt among other countries.

One London paper, read daily by nearly 2,000,000 persons, speaks of the international prestige of Britain in terms that would be considered insulting by a savage tribe on the banks of the Congo. The Bishop of Exeter recently stated that Britain is a decaying, if not a decadent, nation, and that when he was a boy all men wished to know what Britain had to say on international questions, but now it is ignored in favour of Japan or Italy.

It is not surprising, therefore, that some English people are beginning to wonder if it may not be true. A similar tale has, of course, been spun many times in England before. On the very eve of Britain's conquest of Canada and the acquisition of her Indian Empire, there was published a book to prove that, in the words of Macaulay, the British were "cowards and scoundrels," destined for "inevitable slavery." No one has gone quite as far as that recently, but it may be a matter of international importance to convince defenders of Britain's honour that rearmament is not essential to a renewed prestige.

Actually, there is no question of Britain's regaining her prestige, for it never has been lost. It is the modern world, commerce, and trade count for much as an index to a country's importance, and Britain is internationally regarded as having advanced as far toward economic prosperity as any other nation. The establishment of the National Government in 1931 and the successful departure from the gold standard convinced all Europe and America of Britain's internal stability and skill in dealing with intricate problems. In the sphere of international economics its influence has been shown recently in Germany's fundamental acceptance of Britain's attitude that the current Swiss and Dutch transfer agreements discriminate against English interests.

In politics there is good reason to believe that both Russia and Italy are much influenced by the course of British policy; and whenever negotiations between France and Germany reach a particularly serious crisis, it is not invariably to Britain that they turn for assistance and mediation? Does this sound like the record of a second-rate nation, or of a people that has ceased to count in world affairs? Any such supposition would be false, for never in history has Britain's position been more assured than it is today.

FOREIGN FIRMS IN CANTON

To Pay Business Tax

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, April 22. In an effort to secure more revenues for reconstruction and other purposes, the Provincial Department of Finance will require foreign firms doing business in Canton to pay business tax.

When this tax will be imposed on foreign firms is not yet announced, but certain information is being made before collection begins. It is expected to realize $200,000 a month by taxing foreign firms in Canton city and Shamsen.

POLITICAL CALM IN CANTON

Northern Reports Discredited

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, April 22. Political calm is likely to remain for some time despite sensational alarms created by press reports from Hongkong and Shanghai Chinese newspapers, and business men, Chinese and foreigners, express relief that there will be no disturbances in Canton in the immediate future.

The military authorities are not interested in complicated international politics or communiques from the Tokyo Foreign Office, although they stirred up considerable ripples in the sea of diplomacy. The same authorities hold the view that Manchuria is too far away from Canton, and that differences between China and Japan over Manchuria should be settled by the National Government.

As this view is adhered to by those in power here, the South-west Political Council or the Kuomintang South-west Executive Committee is satisfied in issuing circular telegrams suggesting to Nanking what should be done with respect to Japanese relations to Manchuria and North China. Several such telegrams have been issued, and the job is done after the wire is dispatched.

It was learned that the recent agitation to abolish these two South-west organs came from propaganda sources in Shanghai, Nanking and Nanchang, and the responsible authorities in the capital have not made any official suggestions in this connection. If the status quo here is retained, the military do not wish to start any movement against any one or to waste money to enlarge the two South-west organs.

There are rumours of impending invasion on Kwangtung from Fukien, but these are mere rumours created by certain ambitious politicians. Unless there is serious menace to the safety of this province, tranquillity in Canton is likely to continue.

BRITAIN RETURNING TO GOLD STANDARD

Not The Slight Chance At Present

London, April 21. At the concluding session of the annual meeting of the Association of British Chambers of Commerce, a high tribute was paid to the great services rendered by the export credits guarantee department through which in the past seven years exports have been guaranteed to a value of $47,000,000. Losses amounted to only $350,000 and the amount recovered from defaulters was $100,000.

On March 31 last the balance in hand on the operations of the previous four years was $1,350,000. Outstanding liabilities were $3,000,000. It was suggested that the balance in hand should go into suspense account instead of going automatically into the Treasury and that premiums charged might in this way be reduced. It was suggested also that departments might consider the question of raising cover from 80 to 75 per cent at the present premium.

During discussions on the need of caution in stabilising sterling in relation to other currencies, Mr. Alan Anderson, Chairman, said that the whole subject was debated in the International Chamber of Commerce where the British delegates declared there was not the slightest chance of Britain returning to the gold standard until conditions were more stable.—British Wireless.

ANOTHER WINDFALL FOR EXCHEQUER

London, April 20. Death duties amounting to £298,349 have already been paid on the estate of the late Lord Farington, which was valued at £1,021,696.—British Wireless Service.

If Gossip We Must

The wedding of Miss Virginia Varty and Mr. J. H. M. Andrews was the chief event last week, and might almost be described as an International Affair, since so many members of the American and British communities were represented at the ceremony and at the reception afterwards, and it is said to have been the biggest wedding ever known in Hong Kong.

The bride looked very charming in her gown of cream-coloured lace and pearls, and carried a beautiful sheaf of arum lilies, while Miss Mildred Layne, the bridesmaid, wore a most attractive dress of tea-rose yellow which harmonised with her bouquet of tawny African daisies.

About two hundred people went on to No. 1 St. John's Place for the reception afterwards, and Mr. Sheldon carried out the important duty of proposing to the bride's health, which he did in his best legal manner. Everyone admired the bride's going-away dress of soft brown and peach colour.

The honeymoon is to be spent in Baguio and Manila, both spots are ideal at this time of year.

Kowloon, the Department has been hard at work planting young trees on the island, and some of these are placed at regular intervals along the road leading from Jardine's corner to the War Memorial hospital.

But truly the mind of the Chinese coolie works in a mysterious way... in order to plant these small saplings quite a number of big trees already growing there have been ruthlessly cut down. A beautiful China-Rose tree (whose lovely blossoms have been a delight to those who pass that way) has been cruelly hacked and mutilated in order to plant the small sapling exactly in the middle of its roots... several tall young trees and one fine tree of twelve or fifteen years growth have been deliberately cut down, in order to plant a tiny tree in the same spot! Naturally the forestry coolies regard the "dead-wood" which they remove in the course of their duties as a perquisite which they can keep for firewood so there is doubtless method in their madness but we should like to see the face of the European Inspector when he finds out what his myrmidons have done!

JAPAN'S POLICY IN CHINA EXPLAINED

"We Do Not Mean To Tamper With Open Door Principle"

STATEMENT BY MR. YOKOYAMA AT GENEVA

"JAPANESE ENTITLED TO BE SUSPICIOUS"

Geneva, April 22. "We do not mean to tamper in any way with the principle of the 'open door' in China," declared Mr. Yokoyama, Japanese Delegate at the Disarmament Conference, when interviewed by Havas in regard to the Japanese declaration. "We recognise everyone is entitled to trade in China, establish business there, conclude trade agreements and lend money there, but I want the Powers to admit Japan enjoys peculiar competence in Chinese affairs inasmuch as Japan would be the first to suffer from political errors in regard to China. When we see the Governments, or League of Nations, are ready to furnish material financial support which would be exploited against us by certain Chinese parties we are entitled to be suspicious, therefore, I hope in future Japanese interests will be taken more into account by the Powers and the League in dealing with China."

"We have no underhand designs against Foreign Powers or China, we only intend to lend China our moral support towards her peaceful development."

Mr. Yokoyama declared that recognition of Manchukuo by Nanking favoured by Northern Chinese, is combatted by Southern Chinese and certain members of the Nanking Government while Chiang Kai Shek is hesitating; consequently the Japanese Government considered it necessary to give all Chinese leaders a serious warning.—Reuter.

INTERESTING OBSERVATION FROM FRANCE

Paris, April 21. Something new and startling in the Far East, and such is the international situation, that the Japanese stand a good chance of playing the winning hand, says "Le Temps" which, in the absence of an official pronouncement, perhaps gives a hint of the Government's attitude which might be defined as a mild surprise.

The Journal observes that Japan seems to have taken advantage of the tension in Europe and the crisis in the United States to assume a de facto protectorate over China with virtual control over Sino-Foreign relations, and proclaim a Far Eastern Monroe Doctrine. But if things come to this pass, the cause lies in China's anarchy for which the Great Powers owing to their rivalries and diversity of interests failed to find a remedy.

Japan thinks the geographical position and Army alone will enable her to take effective action against dangerous state affairs in China.—Reuter.

LORD CECIL SUPPORTED

London, April 21. The "Manchester Guardian" in an editorial, to-day supports the view of Lord Cecil, that the League of Nations should "tell Japan plainly, that if she touches China the League will proceed against her."

"The wretched precedents of 1931 and 1932 must not be followed," the journal states. "Never was there a better chance of realising unity among the great Powers, not only at Geneva, but outside of it." "In 1932, we lost an opportunity of co-operating heartily with the United States. Both countries decide only the independence, prosperity and strength of China. The opportunities for co-operation should not be lost again," the newspaper declares.—Reuter.

CONTACT WITH JAPAN REQUIRED

London, April 21. The Observer's diplomatic correspondent says it is clear that the real importance attached by opinion in London to Wednesday's announcement from Tokyo, is that it brings nearer the inevitable day when European diplomacy must make contact with Japan in the process of solving Europe's as well as her own problems.—Reuter.

ASSISTANCE TO CHINA MAY BE DANGEROUS

London, April 21. "At the next Disarmament Conference, our status in the Far East must be made clear," declared a Japanese Foreign Office spokesman in an interview with the Tokyo correspondent of the London "Daily Mail" yesterday. "We are the only country capable of being responsible for the maintenance of peace, because of our geographical position and for other reasons which hardly need explanation."

"All assistance for China, whether financial or technical, will ultimately be turned against us, and it is therefore dangerous." "Japan," he continued, "is desirous of arriving at a clear understanding with Russia, and instead of a non-aggression pact which has been suggested, it has been several times suggested by the Soviet that she desires the creation of a commission composed of the representatives of the two countries, plus Manchukuo, to deal with the frontier questions as the best means of maintaining friendly relations."

"The present concentration of Russian troops on the borders of Manchukuo and behind is regarded by Japan as a possible menace. There is no justification for this."

"There are said to be at least 115,000 men, and between 500 and 600 aeroplanes, with tanks and submarines near Vladivostok."

"Japan would like to extend the provisions of the Portsmouth Treaty to the frontier of Manchukuo," the spokesman concluded.—Reuter.

BRITAIN'S POSITION IN AUSTRALASIA

London, April 20. A "Daily Mail" editorial to-day states that Great Britain's special position in Australasia has always been recognised like that of the United States on the American continent.

It is therefore difficult to see why Japan's preponderance of interest in China should be disputed, the newspaper declares.—Reuter.

FRENCH WRITER'S VIEW

Paris, April 21. Japan has laid down her policy, writes M. St. Brice, in the French newspaper, "Le Journal," to-day, based, it is said, on the affirmation of the Monroe Doctrine. The Monroe Doctrine, however, was proclaimed a century ago and has so deviated from its original principle that it has become the gospel of American imperialism.

It would be an error, the writer declares, to construe the Japanese programme in that sense, for Japan's programme is more akin to the original version of the Monroe Doctrine, which was a programme of defence for the New World against European enterprise. Japan now rises against the enterprise of certain Powers, which, under the guise of defending China, seek mainly to make her a buffer against Japan.

The United States is organising China's air force, the League of Nations has remained dumb in the face of China's nationalist provocation, and the League missions to the Far East have contributed not a little to abort efforts at reconciliation the writer continues. Japan has proclaimed herself the champion of order and civilisation in Asia and in that she is qualified to preach by example.

She is hostile to no legitimate enterprise on the part of other Powers providing they do not impair special Japanese interests arising from her geographical, political and economic situation.

"Have the Anglo-Saxons ever professed such a fine shade of distinction between legitimate expansion and imperialism?" M. St. Brice asks.—Reuter.

BRITISH VIEW COMMERCIAL NOT POLITICAL

London, April 21. The diplomatic correspondent of the London "Daily Telegraph" states that the British embassy at Tokyo has telegraphed to London the full text of the "Hands Off China" manifesto together with the Japanese Press comments.

As yet, there has been no approach from Washington to London, but this move may be impending.

If a move is to be made, it is obviously for America, and not Britain or the League of Nations to take the lead. Britain's main concern is not political, but commercial.—Reuter.

CHINESE DENOUNCEMENT

London, April 21. A statement denouncing the Tokyo declaration has been issued by the Chinese Legation, here.

The statement declares that "Tokyo's declaration of policy in regard to China is nothing but a re-affirmation of Japan's traditional policy of aggression and expansion on the mainland of Asia." "Japan's policy is directly opposed to the promotion of peace and order in the Far East," the statement continues.

"The Chinese people are conscious of their rights and obligations and as an independent Sovereign nation, will not subscribe to this baseless doctrine of a Japanese hegemony in Asia."—Reuter.

SENATOR'S STATEMENT

Washington, April 21. While Government officials refrain from commenting on Japan's statement of her position in the Orient, Senator King, in a statement, branding the move, declares, "It is reprehensible, and openly calculated to disturb peace in the Orient and the world."

Expressing disappointment at Japan's course, he declared that he would present his views to the Senate, very shortly.

"It is to be hoped that before it is too late, Japan will return to the paths of peace and earnestly co-operate with all nations to promote world concord," he said.—Reuter.

LIFEBOATMEN HONOURED

Decorations Given Out by Prince of Wales

London, April 20. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales yesterday distributed medals to lifeboatmen, for outstanding exhibitions of courage and endurance in rescue work. The recipients of the gold medal, which is the Victoria Cross of the service, included the widow of Coxswain Robert Patton of the Runswick lifeboat, in York-Shire.

Coxswain Patton died from injuries received during a violent storm while rescuing a crippled sailor who was unable to escape with the rest of the crew from the sinking steamer, "Dispenser," to whose deck rail he was clinging.

The lifeboat was swept against the "Dispenser" badly crushing Coxswain Patton, but he supported the cripple until their rescue was effected, when he collapsed.

The Runswick lifeboat has been renamed the Robert Patton.—British Wireless Service.

SIGNOR SUVICH IN FRANCE

Received By Premier

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 22, 7.30 p.m.)

Paris, April 22. Premier Doumergue on Sunday forenoon received the Italian Under-Secretary of State, Signor Suvich who, so "Petit Parisien" believes, will submit to France, Premier Mussolini's desire to continue disarmament negotiations on the basis of the Italian plan respecting the limitation of armaments.—Transocean Kuo Min.

VISIT TO LONDON

London, April 21. Signor Suvich, Under-Secretary of State at the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, will arrive in London on Sunday. He will be met on behalf of the Foreign Secretary by Mr. J. B. Monck, His Majesty's Assistant Marshall of Diplomatic Corps, and by Mr. Horace Seymour as Chief of Cabinet.

Suvich's visit is primarily a courtesy one and will extend over four days, during which several functions will be given in his honour.

Opportunities will arise during his visit, however, for discussions with Ministers and it is assumed that the disarmament situation will be closely reviewed during these conversations.

Additional importance will attach to the discussions owing to fact that on his way to London to-morrow Suvich will make a brief stay in Paris where he will meet Monsieur Doumergue.—British Wireless.

DISARMAMENT PROBLEM

Britain Italy May Discuss Position

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 21, 4.30 a.m.)

London, April 21.

Discussing the situation created by the last French disarmament note, the diplomatic correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" states that the majority of members of the British Cabinet were clearly making great exertions to obtain joint action with Italy in order to make a last attempt as an intermediary Germany and France. The desire for this is also shared by Mussolini. It is expected that the proposal will be put through Suich with whom negotiations will be begun in London on Monday, and that if such an attempt were made, both Britain's and Italy's right in determining safety conditions or mutual proportions of strength of armaments should be put well in the foreground.

When Suich visits London on Monday, the following points will be discussed:—

1. The length of time for which the Franco-German agreement should last and the respective strength of their armaments during the period of agreement.

2. What guarantee of executions can be proposed and at what stage can such proposal be made.

2. The time and place for such, whether now through diplomatic channels, or later in Geneva. Both in London and Rome, diplomatic negotiations would be preferred even if this meant certain amount of delay in reassembling the bureau and plenary meeting of the arms conference.—Transocean Kuo Min.

CONFERENCE MAY BE POSTPONED

Geneva, April 21. In view of the new situation created by the last French disarmament note, the question of postponing the next meeting of the arms conference bureau which was originally fixed for April 27, is now being eagerly discussed in League circles.

It appears that Great Britain insists on the adherence to the original date, since she considers it imperative that the bureau get its bearings. France, on the other hand, favours a postponement until May 14—the day when the League Council's session is scheduled to open—and takes the view that the Bureau's meeting should merely be a formal one, since it is now up to the arms conference main committee to make the necessary decisions as to further procedure to be followed.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that whatever the eventualities, this point of the arms conference will be hopelessly bogged.—Transocean Kuo Min.

BULGARIA AND GERMANY

Bound By Ties Of Friendship

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 22, 7.30 p.m.)

Paris, April 22. Prior to his departure for Rome, the Bulgarian Premier, Mushanoff, talking to pressmen expressed gratitude for the hospitality accorded him in Berlin, and spoke appreciably of the re-marking and shaping of Germany.

His visit has been a renewed proof to him that Bulgaria and Germany are bound by ties of traditional and undisturbed friendship. A new united Germany is fast nearing completion.

Dealing with economic relations, the Bulgarian Premier declared that more than one-third of Bulgaria's total of exports are destined for Germany and in return Bulgaria obtains the largest portion of her industrial requirements from Germany. These facts, Mushanoff continued, speak for themselves and require no further comment.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Berlin, April 21.

The Bulgarian Premier, Mushanoff, departed from the German capital on Saturday night after spending several days in conversations with Government leaders and outstanding personalities in German economic life. An official communique issued emphasises that in the discussions on questions dealing with German-Bulgarian economic relations and readiness was expressed on both sides for the continuous extension of trade between the two countries.—Transocean Kuo Min.

SILVER LEGISLATION IS IMPERATIVE

DELEGATION TO CONFER WITH ROOSEVELT

Specific Course Of Action
To Be Adopted

Washington, April 21.

There is a thorough discussion in the whole world monetary question, including gold and silver, and there will be further conferences, declared an official announcement at the end of the conference, while Mr. Harrison, the silver advocate, described the conference as most sympathetic. "If necessary to have legislation I think we can get together on a satisfactory Bill," he added.

Senator King said "we canvassed the subject from all angles"—Reuter.

GROUP TO OPPOSE MERELY PERMISSIVE LEGISLATION

Washington, April 21.

The Steerings Committee of the Senate silver bloc, decided to seek mandatory silver legislation preparatory to proceeding to see President Roosevelt for a conference.

Senator King, after a brief meeting in the capitol, announced that the group had decided to tell the President that they are opposed to merely permissive legislation.—Reuter.

SENATOR PITTMAN AMONG THE DELEGATION

Washington, April 21.

The group feels a specific programme should be adopted and carried out rather than that the President be authorised to authorise to take action if he thinks necessary.

A meeting attended by Senator Borah and Mr. Thomas (Democrat, Oklahoma) and Mr. McCarran and Mr. Adams (Democrats, Nevada and Colorado), Mr. Shipstead (Farmer of Labour, Minnesota) in addition to Senator King all proceeded to the White House, accompanied by Senator Pittman and Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee. It is understood that Mr. Morgenthau will participate at the President's conference.—Reuter.

THREE REASONS ADDUCED

Washington, April 21.

Senator King, before entering the White House, declared that the delegation planned to tell President Roosevelt that silver legislation this session "is imperative for revival of business and settlement of the debt problem and providing the necessary circulating medium."

He said that the silver committee will re-meet probably on Monday to determine its policy after learning the President's attitude.—Reuter.

OPPOSED TO LEGISLATION

Washington, April 21. Senator King has called a meeting of the Steering Committee.

mittee of the Senate silver bloc, for this morning, to formulate a programme to be presented to President Roosevelt, later.

The bloc leaders deny the reports that they have agreed to accept permissive rather than mandatory legislation.

Senator Borah states that he is not interested in permissive legislation, and indicates that he will not attend the White House conference this afternoon.—Reuter.

It has been made known by the White House that President Roosevelt feels that the answer to the silver remonetisation problem lies in the formula presented at the World Economic Conference, whereby all nations fix definite reserves of silver in ratio to their gold supply.

He feels that it is impossible for one nation to tackle the problem without the co-operation of all countries.

President Roosevelt confers, today, with the Senate silver advocates, but in consequence of the foregoing statement, he is expected to stand firmly against any mandatory silver legislation this session.—Reuter.

On the eve of the conference between President Roosevelt and the Senate silver advocates, it is indicated at the White House that President Roosevelt does not wish any silver legislation at this session of Congress.

It is stated he regards silver very much as an unknown quantity, and as a problem for international negotiations rather than for national action.—Reuter.

DOUMERGUE'S APPEAL

National Division Is Suicide

Paris, April 22. A stirring appeal to all Frenchmen to forget their quarrels was made by Premier Doumergue in a broadcast speech.

He said that the division in the nation is the nation's suicide, and explained that the Government was compelled to cut salaries and pensions in order to balance the Budget.

The Premier complimented the ex-Servicemen who accepted the sacrifices, and criticised the Civil Servants who objected to cuts.—Reuter.

INTER-CLUB ROWING REGATTA

V.R.C. Beat R.H.K.Y.C. By Only One Point

Splendid rowing conditions favoured the Inter-Club Rowing Regatta held at Kowloon Bay on Saturday afternoon between the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club, the Canton Rowing Club and the Victoria Recreation Club.

The last named did well to win the Regatta with 13 points but only after a serious challenge by the "Royals" who were only one point behind. The victory of the V.R.C. was the first time they had achieved such a feat and it was the more gratifying as they revived rowing interest in the Club only last year after a lapse of about 10 years.

Of the five events on the programme, three went to the V.R.C. and the other two to the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club. The Canton Rowing Club which won the last Regatta held in November last year, were unplaced in the only two events they had entered—the Senior Pairs and Senior Fours—but it must be said that they had exceedingly bad luck in both instances. In the former event they were delayed owing to a rigger part being damaged, and in the latter one of their members were absent owing to indisposition.

The competing crews were entertained to a dinner at Lane Crawford's in the evening by the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club.

EARLY HISTORY AND PREDOMINANCE OF THE V.R.C.

There was a large gathering of spectators both ashore, and aboard the several launches supplied by the R.H.K.Y.C. and the V.R.C., and those responsible are to be congratulated on their good management and the success of the Regatta.

The First Race

The First Race—the Junior Fours—was between the V.R.C. and the R.H.K.Y.C. saw the latter leading slightly from the start. This continued throughout the course with the V.R.C. following closely and it became so exciting that the cox of both boats apparently forgot their duties as the boats came so near to one another that the umpire had to shout a warning. The "Royals" eventually won by half a length.

The Senior Pairs

The Senior Pairs provided real excitement. All the three clubs entered for this event but it was evident from the start that it was a race between the V.R.C. and the R.H.K.Y.C. The latter was leading slightly for three quarters of the course—a quarter of a length in front of the V.R.C. and about two lengths ahead of the Canton R.C.

Midway, the Canton R.C. gave up the challenge, and it was then that the excitement arose for the V.R.C. pair were making a determined effort to catch up the "Royals" in which they succeeded just in the nick of time, eventually winning by a mere three feet.

The Junior Fours

The V.R.C. secured a comfortable victory in this race winning by about three lengths. They were leading all the way and the result was never in doubt.

The next event—the Junior Pairs—saw the V.R.C. complete the "hat trick." They were in the lead throughout and by this victory the V.R.C. were at this stage in a strong position of annexing the Regatta.

The Best Race

The best race of the day was the Senior Fours which incidentally was the last event on the programme. All the three clubs entered and it was touch and go from the start. The V.R.C., however, were leading for the greater part of the race with the Canton Rowing Club slightly in front of the "Royals." After about three quarters of way, the "Royals" caught up the Canton team, but the V.R.C. were still hanging on to their slight lead. Excitement ran high when the "Royals" almost drew level about 100 yards from the finishing post. The V.R.C. made a spurt and drew away, then the "Royals" caught up again, and this continued almost all the last stroke when the "Royals" just managed by a touch. Had the V.R.C. pulled their last stroke a bit faster they would have won the match, and from this one could gauge the excitement!

THE DINNER

The presentation of prizes took place at Lane Crawford's Restaurant the same evening and was attended by the crews of the competing clubs. Mr. H. S. Rouse, Vice-Commodore of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club presided and recalled the early history of the V.R.C. and its predominance in rowing 20 years ago.

Mr. Rouse said that the Victoria Club, as it was known in the early days, previously held a Regatta representative of the whole Colony. The occasion was then honoured by a two-day holiday, he added.

This was the six or seventh inter-club Regatta in which Canton and the V.R.C. had taken part, and he was pleased to note the progress of the V.R.C. in addition to the revival of their own Regatta. Last year they secured their first win, and this year had gone one better by winning the whole Regatta. He congratulated the Secretary, Mr. P. A. Dixon, and the Club on their immense improvement.

Rowing in Hongkong

The standard of rowing, as exemplified in the senior pairs race, proved that there was nothing wrong with rowing in Hong Kong, and the grit displayed by the V.R.C. at the finish was something worth talking about, he said.

Mr. Rasmussen, the captain of the Canton crew, thanked the Yacht Club and congratulated the V.R.C. He said that Canton would offer a much sterner challenge at the next meeting. He added that Canton was probably the oldest rowing club in China and the Far East, having started some 100 years ago. "If they had not been very much alive, their bark was still there," he added. He congratulated the V.R.C. and Yacht Club for "having set off them so thoroughly."

Mr. J. M. M. Alves, Rowing Captain of the V.R.C., thanked the Yacht Club for their invitation, and for the fine racing and organisation of the Regatta. The races, he thought, had provided the closest finishes yet seen and the final result, a victory by only one point, testified to the keenness of competition. He assured his opponents that the V.R.C. would strive to maintain their good showing in future Regattas.

KOWLOON F.C. v. SOUTH CHINA
South China was the attraction on the Railway ground where they met Kowloon in their return match, the visitors winning by the only goal scored.

South China, although not at full strength, sent over a group of young players and their speed told against the Kowloon defence.

Cord had a very busy day and did well to keep the score to one goal against him, saving a penalty kick in the closing minutes of the match. Just before the interval, the persistent attacks of South China were rewarded, Lal Suk-Wai shooting in to beat Cord, who just reached the ball, failed to turn it out.

Kowloon went very close during the second half with McKelvie as leader of the attack. Lal Suk-Wai again netted but his point was disallowed for knocking on. A penalty kick for South China for hands was taken by Yeung Shui Yick, but Cord cleared.

EAST LANCAIRES V. R.A.

Play opened at Carapine Hill with the Gunners fielding ten players only. The opening exchanges were fairly even, although the East Lancashires showed the better ball control. Shooting was rather wild and the respective goalkeepers were not worried. The Gunners took the lead through Hopkins who with a fine solo effort went in to beat Fenn from close range. Within a minute, the Lancashires had drawn level. Salmon sent in a high shot from twenty-five yards, Woods being beaten, from the time the ball left the boot. It was a splendid shot and entered just in the angle of the bar and upright. Woods having very little chance to stop the shot.

Crossing over level and with the Gunners at full strength, the play opened out, but the keenness of the players to secure the winning goal caused several stoppages for offside play.

Exchanges continued even and a surprise came for the East Lancashires when Hopkins received near the halfway line and show a clean pair of heels to his chasers, he drew Fenn out of goal and placed the ball in the net to win the match for the Gunners by two goals to one.

CLUB DE RECREIO v. LINCOLN REGT.

At King's Park, the Lincoln Regt. defeated the Club de Recreio by three clear goals. Although going down by three goals, the Recreio did well and were unlucky in not scoring during the first half of the match. They held the Lincolns for twenty-five minutes and at times they had Higgins guessing in the Lincolns goal.

Ridley gave the Lincolns the lead with a lucky shot, the ball entering the net off the upright. Higgins did well to clear from

ST. STEPHEN'S COLLEGE ATHLETICS

TRIPLE TIE FOR SENIOR INDIVIDUAL CROWN

A very high standard of school athletics was maintained at the annual athletic meeting of St. Stephen's College on Saturday, when a large gathering of visitors witnessed some very close finishes in the track and field events.

OVERSEAS CHINESE BEATEN

POOR HOCKEY EXHIBITION YESTERDAY

Services Fail To Grasp Opportunities

The Overseas Chinese Hockey team from Malaya were defeated by the Combined Services by the odd goal in three on the Hong Kong Football Club ground yesterday in their debut match in the Colony.

Play was very scrappy and innumerable opportunities were thrown away by both lines of forwards, particularly the Services, who, in the second half missed countless goals from centres by Hocquard on the left wing and Neame on the right wing.

A feature of the game was the brilliant display of Yeo Cheok Wah, the visiting goal-keeper, whose deadly eye and splendid smothering dives were responsible for the saving of a great many more goals.

Outstanding Half
Fan Choo Beng, the visiting left half, was easily the outstanding half on display, his neat interceptions reminding one of the outstanding displays of Abbas, the Malayan Interceptor.

Ong Tiang Seng, the visitors' right back was also exceptionally good, his clearances and last minute saves, being a feature of the second half of the game. On the whole the visiting forward line lacked the necessary combination and understanding, particularly on the right wing where the inside and outside rights were always crossing each other's paths.

Hollingsworth was not seen at his best for the Services and the only time he was called upon to make a save, he mislaid and let through the visitors' one and only goal.

Metcalf and Roissler were very good in defence and seldom let anything pass them.

Dulla Singh was very good in the pivot position and his constructive play throughout the game earmarked him as one of the Colony's best pivots.

Lt.-Comdr. Corrie-Hill was very good as right half and worked like a Trojan throughout the game. He had the visiting left wing combination bottled up through the second half of the game besides sending up some lovely passes to Lt.-Comdr. Neame.

Alaf Din on the other wing half position played a none too clean game and on occasions was cautioned by the referee for swinging his stick.

Owing to the absence of Lt. Currey at centre forward, Sub. Lt. Cheyne was brought in, and Lal Singh moved from his usual left wing position to inside left, Hocquard taking the wing position.

Lt.-Comdr. Neame and Lt. Hocquard on the right and left wings, respectively, worked hard and supplied several good openings throughout the game.

Kartar Singh and Lal Singh were over-fond of dilly-dallying with the ball, otherwise a large score would have resulted, while Sub. Lt. Cheyne missed several glorious sitters in the second half when he was inclined to wander.

The Play

The first half opened very promisingly for the visitors who opened the scoring through Lee Tuck Soon, the right winger who cut in to net from a centre by Tien Yuen Fong.

The Services were then prominent for a period with a series of raids, but Cheok Wah in goal for the visitors and the two backs played a splendid game to prevent any immediate scoring.

Lieut.-Comdr. Neame equalised when Corrie-Hill put the ball to him from an unmarked position, the former cutting in to net with a high shot.

In the second half the Services had the majority of play and went ahead through Cheyne who netted following a splendid centre from Hocquard.

Five sandstone cliffs of 100 feet in height, one of which was hollowed out into the form of a chapel by the order of the famous Bishop Henry of Paderborn in 1115, and thus gained at last the public recognition due them as the greatest Germanic relics existing within the nation.

A life-sized relief on the north cliff wall, depicting Christ's way to Golgotha and the fall of man, also dating from the 12th century, will get special attention, from the restoration experts. Santos and Gomes before Dudley shot into the net from a free kick. The work of the Recreio in trying to hold the Lincolns during the first half appeared to tell on the home team defenders during the second portion and although the Lincolns netted once only during this half, they completely outplayed the Recreio. NAVY WIN ON SUNDAY

Playing on the Kowloon F.C. ground in Division 1 of the League the Navy defeated the South Wales Borderers by three goals to one. Early in the game the Navy took the lead and held on to it until the interval, with the Borderers making a fruitless effort to equalise. A flag kick by Shewbrook was headed into the net by Roberts.

The Borderers scored early in the second half, Hazlewood shooting in from close range to beat Leech. The Borderers had chances to secure the lead, but weakness in front of goal lost them their chance.

Shewbrook put the Navy in front by placing the ball well put of Smith's reach and before the final whistle sounded Naismith beat Smith with a fast low shot.

CHINESE TRIAL FOR THE OLYMPIC

There was a large attendance at Caroline Hill to witness the Olympic trial match between Eastern and Southern China resulting in a win for Southern China by two goals. Play did not come up to expectations in view of the question of selecting players to represent China at Manila.

The outstanding player in the visitors team was the goalkeeper who did well to keep out shots from Fung King Cheong and Lee Wai Tong. Wong Ki Leung did well in the other goal, but his job was easy to that of Zee Heng the other keeper.

Southern China had most of the game but failed to press home their advantage. Li Ting Sang and Lau Mau played safe although Lau opened badly, mistaking the first time he was called upon to clear. There was no score during the first half.

A corner kick well taken by Ip Pak Wah in the opening minutes of the second half gave South China the lead, Tam heading in to beat Zee Heng.

Ding dong struggles ensued with Southern China holding the advantage. Several exciting moments in the goal area gave neither team any advantage.

Just before the final whistle sounded Tam Kong Pak came through and shot hard against the post; the ball rebounded to play and Tam following up shot into the net giving Zee no chance.

Mak Wai Ming's Success

Kwai Chun-hang, the Colony's Breast stroke champion and holder of the Hong Kong International Amateur Swimming Association's 200 Yards Breast Stroke championship time of 2 mins. 38.2/5 secs, failed to better his own 200 metre time of 2 mins. 58 secs, established at last Saturday's Hong Kong Chinese swimming elimination trials, when he competed in the final heat of the Men's 200 Metres Breast Stroke at the South China elimination trials at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. THE EXCHANGE MARKET

MESSRS. ROZA BROS. REPORT

India was reported to have been a moderate buyer of silver in the London market yesterday. The market was quiet, the price for Ready being unchanged at 10 1/2. Forward was 1/16 up at 10 1/2. The tone closed dull and apprehensive of American selling of which there were indications. In New York the silver price was 4 1/2 and the tone was given as quiet. Sterling appreciated from an opening rate of 8 1/2 to a closing rate of 8 1/2. The market was reported as erratic.

Quiet. Sterling, responding to the rise in the cross-rate, was on the easy side compared to Dollars. The opening quotation of silver at 1/5 31/32 was more or less nominal. Business at that rate followed for the month of May, the second half May and also June. The market closed with sellers at 1/5 29/32 for April, first half May, 1/5 18/32 second half May/June, and 1/5 31/32 July buyers at 1/5 15/32 cash and probably May, 1/5 31/32 June and 1/5 July.

U.S. Dollars

Were relatively steady with sellers at 38 1/2, buyers at 38 1/2. Business was done at the middle rate of 38 9/16 to a moderate extent. 38 1/2 was obtainable at the close with buyers at 38 1/2.

HARRIMAN'S REPORT

Despite the approaching Settlement on Tuesday next, there has been very little adjustment of Settlement accounts, consequently the market during the week under review again ruled quiet and trading was on a limited scale. The main feature of the week was the sharp rise in Cements from $1.80 to $2.85 but the demand has since slackened to a buying rate of $2.40. China Lights (old) remained very steady with shares changing hands at $8.95/9.05, the new shares being enquired for at $8.70. Hotels were steady around $5.90. China Providents (old) were in demand at $1.85 after sales at $1.80. Ewos weakened a great deal closing with sellers at $811.10. With the exception of Hong Kong Lands which were done as low as $84, investment issues recovered slightly towards the close with Hong Kong Trams in demand at $26.60. Hong Kong Electric at $11.75 and Telephones (old) at $22.60. On the other hand, Wharves were on offer at $105 after business at this rate. Dairy Farms remained unchanged with sellers at $26.60. In the Sterling section, Hong Kong Banks showed no change with transactions done at $1830/35, but Unions were better having been done in fair quantities at $590/97 1/2. The tone of the market at the close was dull and uninteresting. Business during the week has been done at the following prices:
